

Snowy Mountains and Country New South Wales

Mungo National Park

Take a journey to country New South Wales to discover spectacular landscapes, classic outback towns and Aussie country hospitality.

A magnet for outdoor lovers, the Snowy Mountains is the place to go for skiing in winter, but has plenty to offer all year round. This is a landscape of great bushwalks, glacial lakes, alpine flowers and the highest mountain on mainland Australia, Mt Kosciuszko. Here you can follow alpine tracks, horse ride through challenging countryside or unwind with a spot of trout fishing or kayaking.

Head south from Sydney to Albury, passing through picturesque villages steeped in history to the friendly town built on the banks of the iconic Murray River. Find beautiful gardens, great dining spots and plenty of parks to enjoy a picnic. A bustling town with great café culture greets you at Wagga Wagga. New South Wales' largest inland city keeps a little of the country culture with a local arts scene that's diverse and exciting. Orange serves up some tasty holiday experiences. Treat yourself to local wine and regional cuisine. Meet the growers and producers at the Farmer's Markets twice a month.

Mining history mixes with motor racing at Bathurst. Take in the Bathurst 1000 or tackle your own Mt Panorama Circuit, albeit at 60km per hour. Slow down and enjoy the picturesque streets and country lanes and the 1800s architecture of its neighbouring towns.

Australia's country music capital, Tamworth, is best known for its annual music festival, but the town's attractions and events run all year. Don't miss the Big Golden Guitar and the Hands of Fame Park, celebrating all things country music.

Broken Hill reflects the culture of its mining heritage. Vibrant arts and a community of friendly locals make this a welcoming town. Meet the personalities of the outback and take a tour to see the best of the west; from the Pro Hart Gallery to the fascinating Walls of China dune formation in Mungo National Park.
